SUN BEAMS

By WALTER M. BARRETT

It takes an election to bring out the best and the worst in a man. Before the votes are counted he is everyone's friend, but if he loses he declines to recognize even his real friends. It's too bad everyone and everything can't win unanimous consent of all the voters. What a sweet mess we would be in then!

Now that the town has virtually determined to let winter sports take the skids, there are offers and more offers from local and outside interests to take over the management and operation of the rink and pavilion. We should by all means accept one or two of these offers if for no other reason than to keep winter sports alive for Truckee.

Our need for a game warden in this district is just as apparent today as it was two years or more ago. There are those who still enjoy the fishing and hunting of the area unmolested, with others purchasing what they desire in the way of game foods. The change in state administration may or may not bring about a correction for the Truckee region. We can only hope that it does.

Did you know that by diverting just half of the Truckee money spent on mail orders and in out of town stores into local channels that this woud be a much better and more prosperous place in which to live? Whether you do or not, it is an undisputed fact. Every dollar you keep in Truckee makes Truckee that much better.

The thought strikes us that winter is on the way to becoming a reality in our district, whether we are prepared for it or not, and with this thought quite naturally comes another which makes us wonder what action has been taken during the summer to prevent a repetition of our unwholesome sewage disposal problem. When the obnoxious condition was at the height of its unwholesomeness last year many things were discussed and promised and while there is a possibility the corrections have been made and go unnoted, there is a possibility that the disposal problem is still in the same condition it was was February.

Stil another town, hardly old enough to be called a town, is seeking to incorporate. Central Valley has petitioned its supervisors for an election. The action was taken, no doubt, so that Central Valley can enjoy the use of much of the revenue which it contributes to county and state and to further benefit by having its own government to settle local questions in a local way. Central Valley is the fourth town within the past few weeks to seek incorporation.

Sacramento Card Dealer Said To Have Confessed To Local Crime

SECOND MAN RELEASED

Arrest In Capital Recalls The Shooting of Robber This Summer

Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen returned to Nevada City this week with Walter L. Welden, 29, who is said by police to have made a confession to having been a companion of Nick Couri when he was killed during a service station robbery at the Fox Farm near Soda Springs on August 26, last.

Welden was arrested in Sacramento where he had been employed as a card dealer, on November 10. Ezra May, 35, arrested with Welden, was released.

It will be remembered that Couri was shot and killed by Phil Threvethick, operator of the store and service station when three men made an attempt to rob the store early in the morning. Threvethick, heard the commotion as the door was forced and fired into the dark room with a small calibre gun, one of the bullets striking Couri in the head killing him instantly. Two accused companions of the slain man escaped in a light car headed toward Sacramento.

Fate Of Local Winter Sports To Be Settled

Directors of Chamber Will Meet Tonight to Act On Offers

THREE SEEK ACCESSION

Truckee, Reno Interests Bid For Acquisition Of Facilities

Fate of Truckee's winter sports will probably be definitely decided at a meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce called for tonight by President C. B. White.

No sooner had the chamber, which has been attempting to carry winter sports for the past two years, decided that the annual problem would by necessity be discontinued this season, than no less than three offers were made to take over the concession by private parties.

The three offers were presented at Monday's chamber of commerce meeting. The first came from Orland Sanders, who declared he represented a number of the younger people of Truckee who were anxious to have the skating rink conditioned for their own use if not for outside sportsters. He said that approximately 18 of the younger set had volunteered to work on the rink and put it into shape for use.

The second offer came from Earl Edmunds, who suggested that he and Stanford Gregory assume responsibility for the rink and other winter sports facilities and equipment and keeping the rink, ski grounds and buildings in condition. A counter propcsition was made which would give the Sanders group concession privileges providing they wished to cooperate in preparing for the sports.

The final proposition came from three Reno men, who wish to lease the rink, skates and other equipment and operate the sports as a business venture.

White, who is also president of the Truockee Outing Club, operating organization for the winter sports during past years, called a meeting of the directors of the chameber of commerce to take definite steps, but suggested that the matter also be thrashed out at a meeting of the outing club held at the California Restaurant Monday night. The three plans were presented at the latter meeting without any concrete results the final decision being referred to the chamber directors.

Outstanding obligations, liabilities, responsibility for equipment and ownership of lands and facilities were among the phases to be considered by the directors at tonight's session.

LOCAL HUNTERS IN VALLEY AS BIRD SEASON IS OPENED

Quail and pheasant hunting season opened on November 15 and many local nimrods have traveled to distant points in the Sacramento Valley as Nevada County does not have open season on pheasants.

The quail season will remain open until the last day of December, with a limit of ten birds in possession. The limit may include either valley or mountain quail or the limit may be mixed, but not to exceed ten. The pheasant season will last but six days and wild pigeon shooting season opens on December 1 and will last until December 15.

LABOR ORGANIZER MEASURE PROTESTED ON WORDING

REDDING, Nov. 17— (UP) — Approval of an ordinance licensing labor organizers has evoked a protest form local members of the American Federation of Labor.

Rowland Watson, spokesman for the federation, asked an investigation of the manner in which the ballot was drafted. Watson maintained the ballot was misleading because it was headed with the word "proposition" instead of ordinance 251, on which he said all the union's advertising against the measure was based.

Board Criticised For Selling Bonds At Asserted Loss

Auditor Finds Books All In Good Condition In Audit

GRASS VALLEY, Nov. 17.— While the reports of L. M. Straine Co., public accountants who experted the books of the county officers states that they found them neatly and accurately kept and county money all accounted for, the action of the board of supervisors in selling $40,000 worth of Bind of Acquisation and Improvement District No. 2 is some what severely criticised.

The report says that "during the months of May and June, 1938, $40,000 of the county's own Acquisitation and Improvement District 6 per cent bonds, which previously had been a part of the treasury's cash had been sold by the treasurer but no authorization for the sale was found in the minutes."

Clerk R. N. McCormack last night stated to the Morning Union representative that this criticism had been met by the board's ratification of the sale subsequent thereto.

McCormack further stated that the Acquisitation and Improvement District No. 2 had been created several years ago and bonds in the amount of $87,000 issued to pay for the construction of the Grass Valley1Colfax highway.

The lines of the district were so drawn that they did not include the big mines of Grass Valley district, whose owners protested the ssuance of bonds if they were to become a lien on the mining properties.

The board of supervisors at the time agreed to purchase $40,000 of the bonds last to become due in order that the road might be built and the money was taken from the county treasury to pay for them.

However, it was understood that whenever the board could sell the bonds for the amount paid for them, $40,000, it should be done.

Recently the opportunity to sell the bonds at par presented itself and the board in accordance with the original plans sold them for their face value plus accrued interest, in order that they might have $40,000 in cash in the treasury rather than bonds, the security for which might not be worth the amount of the bonds outstanding.

Olson Successor Would Repeal Initiative Law On Account of Great Abuse

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 17— (UP) — A bill doing away with initiativs will be offered by Robert A. Kenny, new state senator from Los Angeles, he announced.

The initiative as applied in California has been a failure, Kenny insisted. The former superior judge who succeeds governor-elect Culbert Olson as the Los Angeles delegate in the upper house maintains initiative measures have stifled "the kind of debate we need on important legislation."

"In theory it is all right," he said, "butin practise it has been abused. The voters are getting tired of it."

Boca Dam Job Closed As Cold Causes Shutdown

Work on Highway Continues Despite Weather As Project Rushed

WORKMEN LEAVING

Boca Dam Will Be Continued In Spring; Both Are Incomplete

Freezing weather in this region has caused a shutdown in the dirt work at Boca Dam although only a few days would have been required to complete that portion of the one million dollar federal reclamation project.

Many men who had been employed on the project have left town with their families, although there are still a large number residing here.

Work on the Hirschdale-State Line highway, which is nearing completion on the western division, is continuing despite the cold weather and work there is being rushed as much as possible.

The earth at the Boca job froze several inches making it impossible to continue with the fill, it was reported.

EARL LEE KELLY GIVES RESIGNATION TO CHIEF WITH DEEPEST REGRET

Bringing to a close eight years of public service as a State Highway Commissioner and Director of Public Works, Earl Lee Kelly today submitted to Governor Farnk F. Merriam his resignation to take effect on December 31. Director Kelly sent the following letter to Governor Merriam:

Dear Govenor:

This is one of the most difficult letters I have ever had to compose. I am submitting to you my resignation as Director of Public Works with a very deep regret.

It has been a great pleasure to me to serve in my capacity as head of the great Department of Public Works under the late Governor James Rolph Jr., and yourself. In the office I now hold and which I am relinquishing, I have seen the building of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, the actual start of the Central Valley Project and the greatest development of the highway system in the history of our State.

I am impelled to mention to you that under your administration there has been expended for our highway system $175,000,000 and that California is outstanding in its determination to divert no gasoline tax funds from highway purposes. I cannot refrain from mentioning in this, my letter of retirement, your interest and wholehearted support of the Central Valley Project, which will mean so much to the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys and our beloved State as a whole As a member of the toll bridge authority of California, I have had occasion to appreciate your devoted effort in the construction of the mightiest bridge in all the world, and as Chairman of the Water Project Authority it has been within my province to know how thoroughly you have cooperated with the Federal government and pushed forward this wonderful undertaking.

You are leaving office with the know ledge that you have wiped out a State Treasury deficit of approximately $30,000,000. I sincerely hope that the farflung activities of the Department of Public Works will be continued as a lasting memorial to your administration.

I desire that my resignation take effect on December 31, 1938.

With kindest regards and best wishes I am,

Sincerely Yours,

Earl Lee Kelly.

Director of Public Works

THANKSGIVING——

Just a little more than three centuries ago, a gallant band of men and women gathered on the shores of Plymouth Bay to raise their voices, arms and hearts in a hymn of thanks. Barred from their homes by a wintry ocean, harassed by a silent dread of Indians, plagued by hungry months ahead, they yet found reason to be thankful.

Today, three hundred and fifteen years later, you and I face another Thanksgiving. Plagued with "isms" of a world gone mad, harassed by the threat of war, barred from economic stability, we may perhaps ask: What have we to be thankful for?

In China and Spain homes lie splattered into gruesome wreckage by the searing splash of falling bombs. In the East and West, men, women and children, who this morning had known the joy of living, will tonight lie sacrificed on the altar of war. In Germany and Italy, voices are hushed, eyes cst down as men forget their right to know and think. In England and France men sit silent before the tread of marching feet. In America, you and I will go home tonight, secure in the knowledge that it is peacful and protected, that our lov- of our voices, the right to think and act.

What have you and I to be thankful for? We have this—that in a world gone mad greed, in a world tortured by the boasts of the mighty and the cries of the weak—that in such a world, you and I are Americans.

HAIL—NOT HEIL——

Senator Culbert L. Olson is governor-elect of California. On Tuesday of last week his duties and responsibilities as a citizen underwent a change possible only in American democracy. Prior to election day, Mr. Olson was responsible only to the members of the Democratic Party, which selected him as its candidate. But now Mr. Olson is the next Governor of all Californians—responsible to them all, Republicans and Democrats, conservatives as well as liberals.

As Governor of California, Mr. Olson will administer his office as he considers best for the welfare of the State. And it is the duty of all Californians to forget political differences and unite sincerely to help Governor Olson make a success of that administration—just as much so as it is the duty of citizen Olson to forget political differences and carry out the duties of his office impartially and with respect to the rights of every resident of the State.

In Germany it is "Heil, Hitler—right or wrong!"

In California it is simply "Hail, Governor Olson!" Californians reserve the democratic right to criticize the new Governor, when and if they feel he's wrong. But good Californians also recognize the right of Mr. Olson—as Governor and no longer as candidate—to the sincere cooperation of all citizens in the common task of making our great state a better place in which to do business, to work and live.

POLITICAL PARADE

by Cleon Whitaker

The 'Ham and Egg' plan, according to all indications, is indubitably dead—but the pension movement marches on!

California's hectic experience with the '$30 Every Thursday' initative has led to some heavy thinking on the pension question by serious-minded citizens who are neither pension applicants nor likely prospects.

And as a consequence, the movement for a uniform federal pension system—paid by Uncle Sam, in equal amounts in all States—is more than likely to recruit new support in California, with taxpayers' associations and business leaders joining hands with senior-citizen-crusaders.

Paradoxical though it may seem, the 'scare' that resulted from temporary popularity of the 'Ham and Egg'plan—even though the proposal was decisively beaten—has aided the pension movement.

Reasons:

First, the support gained by a program which was completely unsound and unworkable, and which would have made California the laughing stock of the nation, demonstrated conclusively the tremendous voting power of pension-conscious classes.

Second, most of those who led the fight against the $30 plan realized, before it was over, that a program not quite so impractical would have been unbeatable.

Third, all and sundry are rapidly recognizing that if California eventually adopts an overly-generous State pension (at least as compared to pensions in other States) that it will be over-run with penniless and destitute from every section of the nation.

Watch for an inquiry at the next session of the State Legislature to determine who is putting up the dough for the Sacramento County Grand Jury probe into legislative activities. Governor Merriam, our spy advises, has ceased to be a contributor. But a mysterious 'Good Government League' with headquarters in Los Angeles, has antied up. And the lawmakers are curious.

Some of the campaigners who spent all their coin on the radio are still wondering what hit them! With few exceptions, the campaigns which won—at the November 8th election—were the campaigns which told it to the people in newspapers. Eyes still decide more elections than ears!

The LaFollette Civil Liberties Committee, now investigating employer-groups in California, has a bull by the tail, our scout reports. The Committee itself is under suspicion—of radical leanings! And California farm organizations, which are being investigated by the Committee, are doing a bit of investigating on their own account. Obeservers will attend all sessions!

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zinsmeister of Carnelian Bay frequently entertain out-of-town guests, the latest being their nephew Dick Tyrrell of San Francisco who was accompanied by Miss Flora Theece also of that city. Mr. Zinsmeister's niece Jcanne, of Menlo Park will enjoy Thanksgiving week with them this year.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Vernon of Bettencourt Tract journeyed up the Redwood highway on Thursday of last week to enjoy some of Oregon's autumn scenery, their tour taking them to Crater Lake and other points of interest. They returned Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bechdolt, Sr., and son Bill and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bechdolt, Jr., and daughter, Christine were among those motoring down from Tahoe for football games over the weekend. Enthusiasm and seats ran high—with none o f the latter available to late comers.

Teh postponed community center meeting is taking place on Tuesday evening at the local hall. A good crowd is expected and refreshments will be served following an open forum. All members of the community are welcome to attend these impromptu meetings.

A genuine scare was experienced at Tahoe last week when a radio reporter read off the names of two men killed in an auto accident near Antioch. To those listening, the names sounded like Art Brodehl and Donald Cowell, two local men, the former Tahoe's mail man. When he failed to appear promptly on the dot with the mail next morning, Mrs. Watson went to his home to discover if the report were true. Much to the relief of the town, Mr. Brodehl was very much alive as was young Cowell who had been away on motorcycle trip. The names were later verified as Wodell and Powell.

Miss Marjorie Corkins, sister of Mrs. Art Brodehl has arrived to spend the winter at the Brodehl home in Tahoe City.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of Tahoe Cedars left Sunday for Yankee Hill where they will spend the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McDonald of Woodland were guests at Tahoe Inn over the weekend when they were unable to reach their summer home in Timberland Tract due to snow.

Tahoe Ski Club members are urged to attend the next meeting of the club to be held at the local community hall on November 18 at which time the election o f officers is scheduled. Considerable enthusiasm is evidenced in the possibility of creating a new ski grounds at local golf links and a report will be submitted by the committee appointed on the feasibility of the plan. Time—7:30 in the evening.

Mrs. Frank Armstrong is now residing in Lindsay where her son Charles is attending school.

Chris Nielsen has been entertaining a number of visitors during the past week among them were: Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schleuter, Mr. and Mrs. Monett Hamilton and son, all of Tahoe Park and Mr. and Mrs. Geo rge Baker of Vallejo, week end visitors of the Hamilton family. Mrs. Gertrude Broach prepared a tasty supper which preceded the card playing.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ferguson and sons left Monday for sevehal days in Sacramento where they will combine business with pleasure, Mrs. Ferguson visiting friends while Mr. Ferguson enjoys some pheasant hunting.

Miss Agnes Soll motored up from Sacramento where she spends the winter, to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Soll of Pine Lodge over the week end.

Armistice Day was observed in the Tahoe Lake School with appropriate services on Thursday afternoon, Friday being a school holiday. Mr. Morrow, school custodian, enterained the assembled chidren with exciting tales of his life on asubmarine during the World War. The children portrayed various persons connected with that period of history from the time of the entry of this country into the struggle until the Armistice. Robert Edwards portrayed President Wilson and June White assumed the role of a Red Cross nurse. The entertainment was climaxed with a magic lantern showing of Flanders Field, with its row on row of white, unforgettable crosses.

Sometime this week, probably on Friday at 1 o'clock, the elementary grades will climax their study of the state of California with an imaginative play 'Montrey.' A week's vacation for the Thanksgiving holidays will start on November 21. Local instructors will go to Auburn for a week's attendance at teacher's institute.

Hungary's Colorful Harvest Festival

Hungarian State Tourist Department

WHEN field work comes to an end in Hungary the entire countryside enjoys the revels of the harvest festival. Dressed in the blazing colors of their Sunday best the peasants enjoy a carefree holiday. It is a universal period of rest, festival and marriage. The picturesque harvest festival has been handed down unchanged for countless generations. The details of the celebration are exactly defined in Hungarian folklore. The grapes, wheat, corn and other fruits are carried through the fields in elaborate processions to the accompaniment of singing and dancing exactly as in the middle ages.

One of the great charms of the harvest festivals is the riot of colors of the peasant costumes. Every shade of the rainbow seems to have been borrowed for the occasion. The dresses are enriched with elaborate embroideries, the work of months of patient labor. The men are scarcely less brilliant. Their full dress includes embroidered aprons which give them the appearance of wearing skirts. When American tourists visit Hungary their first request is usually to be taken to see the famous Hungarian peasant costumes and pageants.

After the harvest procession comes the feasts in the open fields and the dances and general merrymaking. The technique of the wild dances and frolics is an ancient inheritance. Amendment Sought For Bass Fishing Regulations

The officials of thes tate department of natural resources indicated they will ask legislature to amend the California fish and game laws to block further raids on striped bass spawning grounds.

Patrol Warden Charles Sibeck said fourteen citations issued last Sunday and a number of others issued previously will not be pressed in court because the attorney general has ruled that there is no limit on the number of artificial lures used in trolling for the stripers.

The citations, he said, were issued because many fishermen in the Rio Vista, lower San Joaquin and Potato Slough areas were trolling for bass with dozens of lures and gang hooks on heir lines. The law provides that only three bait hooks may used, but excepts artificial lures.

Sibeck said throngs of fishermen have taken advantage of this technicality and are trolling the spawning grounds, in many instances snagging fish attracted by the bobbing plugs. Although dozens of citations have been issued for violation of the statute, he said, the attorney general's ruling prevents prosecutions.

He said nothing further would be done until the law is repealed.

PATROL HEAD REPORTS TRAFFIC DEATH DECREASE

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 17— Traffic deaths on rural highways of California during September continued to decrease, showing a reduction of 32 or 19 per cent as compared to September 1937, Chief E. Raymond Cato of the California Highway Patrol stated today.

During the first nine months of the year, there was a reduction of 182 deaths on rural roads, he added.

While deaths declined, September showed an increase of 227, or more reportable accidents than a year ago. Explanation of this is given that the law giving California Highway Patrol authority to investigate accidents wher persons are injured has increased the number of persons making reports as required by law.

Senator Discusses Vital Problem En Route East

Thomas M. Storke, Santa Barbara publisher who was appointed United States senator by Gov. Merriam a few days ago, today declared the mig ration of indigents to California is becoming one of the state's most seriuos problems.

"Many of these cases, of course, are worthy," said Senator Storke, "but, generally, the entry into Califor nia of men and women unable to support themselves has created a situation that becomes more garve every day.

"Among such people, the word is spreading, 'Go to California!' They expect things here which this state cannot give them. Either their own states must care for them, or some nationwide solution, under federal supervision, must be found."

Storke was thus quoted in San Francisco, en route to New York and Washington, D. C. Appointed to fill the unexpired term of Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, resigned, Storke will carry the title of senator until senator-elect Sheridan Downey takes office in January.

Politically Speaking

by John W. Dunlap
United Press Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 17— (UP) — The Democratic victories in the state elections, led by the triumph of Culbert L. Olson over Frank F. Merriam for the governorship, struck the state administration with the force of a tidal wave.

Aided by a topheavy Bourbon registration and riding the tide of a growing demand for lberalized old age pensions, the Democratic party came back to power in California and gained control of the state's patronage for the first time since the days of 'Buckboard Jim' Budd in 1894.

Teh Democrats controlled the assembly in 1937, but without the governorship and a majority in the senate were unable to make much headway.

But the tide has reversed and now the Democrats, adhering closely to the well established political practise will administer California's affairs in great measure for the next four years at least.

The Republican party retained control of the senate, which may prove a stumbling block to some of Olson's proposed adjustments in the governmental structure. Yet because the governor has the final say on all legislation passed it is believed the GOP upper house members may have to make their peace with the executive office to get their home town measures signed.

Tremendous pressure will be on Olson from the day he takes office He promised reform on a large scale he indicated that a pardon Thomas J. Mooney may be among the first acts of his administration; he denounced the GOP as reactionary and will be held to account by the liberal wing of the electorate which supported him on this basis. All of these things add up to a large scale headache for an incoming governor. Olson will be faced with the task of finding replacements for key positions now hold by Republicans. The high salaried positions of directors of finance, director of public works, superintendent of banks and dozens of lesser posts will be taken over by the Democarts. The Democratic political famine outranks the seven lean years of the Bible by a wide margin and the victors would be something less than human if they did not capitalize on their advantage.

Olson's political and economic beliefs stem from a concept that is directl y opposed to the conservative line established and adhered to by the Republican party for so many years. Indeed, the governor elect has alread stated that in many respects the new progra will use the New Deal's approach to public questions.

As the returns cleraly showed a Democratic victory, Olson was pressed for a statement concerning his plans for dealing with unemployment. He charted a course which was widely interperated as resembling the production for use idea advanced by Upton Sinclair. Olson was chairman of the Democratic state central committee when Sinclair made his unsuccessful bid for the governorship in 1934. Since election night, however, Olson has emphasized that his ideas on unemployment are not those of the Sinclair-EPIC program.

He promised aid to unemployed self-help cooperatives and expressed the belief that a 'systematic state government' can do much toward working out the rehabilitation of needy indigent groups. Sinclair also favored the self help idea with the idea of abolishing direct relief, in the hope of lightening the burden on taxpayers. But Sinclair's ultimate aim was toward elimination of the perfit motive. Olson has stated this objective is not his intention.

The new governor will confer with President Roosevelt on one of California's most vital problems, care of the migrant army of dustbowl refugees from the plains area of the middle west and southwest.

Also scheduled for immediate attention are a thorough audit of the state finances and drafting of legislaton covering mediation of labor disputes.

There is good reason for believing that when all the shouting was over Gov. Merriam really did not feel so badly. Reporters at the capitol, in close touch with the seventy-two year old governor, thought they detected throughout the campaign a lack of enthusiasm on the governor's part.

Merriam followed political custom in a message of congartulation to Olson and offered his full cooperation. The governor thanked everyone who worked in his behalf but added he woud retire to privatelife with no regrets.

'While my friends worked hard in my behalf, I cannot overlook the fact that the press of the district deserves a large share of the credit for my winning the election.'

Method of Numbering State Propositions Is Attacked

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 17— (UP) — Legislation to change the system of numbering ballot propositions may be asked of the 1939 legislature, according to reports at the state capitol.

Organizations studying the present method—which leaves assignment of the number to the discretion of the secretary of state—believed drawing o f the propositions place on the ballot by lot would be much fairer.

Remembering Good

IF WE are to go forward, fitted for the work before us, should we not be properly prepared? Instead of indulging the human tendency to look back sorrowfully or to think regretfully of the past, we must learn to think scientifically, keeping our consciousness ever true to God, good.

Meditation upon what in the past was good, reminds us that we should render an account of our present stewardship. Should we not recognize the many blessings we all too often take for granted? Since, as Whittier has said,

"That all of good the past hath had Remains to make our own time glad,"

let us gladden each day by taking stock of "all of good the past hath had."

Allowing only the good to remain in our thought is a happy service, a grateful prayer of praise. Keeping in our hearts thoughts of the unchanging goodness and omnipotence of God quiets fear and brings new courage, joy, and peace into daily experience. . . .

Knowing the allness of God, good, brings peace, and peace brings joy, and joy proves the presence of good. Remembering God's gift to mankind in the revelation of the Christ, and remembering the message of "on earth peace, good will toward men" brings about a purification of heart! . . .

Mary Baker Eddy gleaned something of good from every one of her experiences. Out of her rich triumphs came her admonition (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, pp. 149, 150), "Remember, thou canst be brought into no condition, be it ever so severe, where Love has not been before thee and where its tender lesson is not awaiting thee." The way to turn from sad scenes in memory's lane need not be learned through hard lessons. Only when we cling to grief through self-pity do we miss Love's "tender lesson." Challenging every condition with the question, "What is Love's 'tender lesson'?" will turn our struggling into the giving of thanks to God.

The measure of our progress should be estimated, not by how much we know of Truth, but by how well we live and love it day by day, and by how much we express the spirit of good will toward others. A perfect rule for gracious and happy living is to remember God, good, all the time.

All thoughts that would keep out of our hearts love for God and man must be recognized as enemies to health, happiness, and holiness. Isaiah termed such insidious errors "other lords." Remembering good, remembering that God is with us, brings proof in our day also that those "other lords . . . are deceased, they shall not rise: therefore hast thou visited and destroyed them, and made all their memory to perish" (Isaiah 26:13, 14). How happily we go forward when "all their memory" has perished!

What is it, after all, that makes our days seem unhappy, with spiritual happiness always within our reach? Is it not that God has been left out of our thoughts, and that love has been crowded out of our hearts? The need of the hour is not that great happiness be brought into our day, but rather that the happiness which is spiritual be recognized, claimed, and shared. Someone has said that there are some in this world who have the gift of finding joy everywhere, and of leaving it behind them when they go. This is the touchstone of selfless happiness.

The art of true living is to discern and to embrace the good ever within reach. In order that we may discern and embrace the good within reach we must be mentally ready to accept it Being ready mentally prevents us from grieving over the past or from hesitating on the threshold of tomorrow. To "give thanks at the remembrance of his holiness" is to eliminate fear, sorrow, lack, enmity; is to make "all their memory to perish." "Remembrance of his holiness" —remembering God—is not this identifying ourselves with universal good?—The Christian Science Monitor.

MISSOURI UNIVERSITY CONDUCTS VALUABLE FISH STUDY THIS YEAR

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 17—Two hundred Missouri fishermen have devoted a lot of time during the summer prying into the age of fish. Now Roland E. Miller, of the University of Missouri, with a staff of assistants, is tabulaing the returns.

The age of fish can be determined as accurately as the age of a tree, by counting the rings on the scales—if you know how.

The volunteers signed up early in the season to collect scales of largemouth bass, crappies and green sunfish, record the size and weight of the fish from which the scales were taken and mail the scales and data to the University of Missouri.

Many states have discovered that the more fish—beyond a certain point—the less fishing. When the fich population exceeds the food resources of the water, through planting, the fish never reach legal size.
